FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

SATURDAY, Nov. 7—6P. M.
Wall street has been greatly excited to-day by a stockjobbing despatch from Washington in the inerest of the buils to the effect that the Secretary of the Treasury has decided that he has the power to elssue any legal tender notes redeemed but not canelled—a distinction without a difference—provided the amount does not exceed $400,000,000. On Friday despatch of an exactic annuality character. patch of an exactly opposite character, emanated om the same source, was telegraphed, and Mriloch, according to that, had no authority to some any more greenbacks for any purpose what-soever, while he was wholly poweriess to relieve the prevailing monetary stringency. Mark the change wrought within twenty-four hours and let the public draw its own inference. Mr. McCulloch was apoct of affording relief to the money market, and to his invariable reply was that he had no hat the Treasury was not responsible for the stringency, while he considered that the manks were, by lending so largely on stocks as to be no longer able to make new loans. The de-Vall street in order to frighten the "shorts" into covering" their contracts, and so enabling the bulls to unload without loss, and this new form of Trea-tury bull movement has not been unsuccessful. wing to its being a surprise, Mr. McCulloch up to sterday having appeared as a contractionist, hereas he now appears in the character of an mationist, probably for this time only, as the play bills say. The despatch from Wash-ington was backed by a letter from him to Mr. Van Dyck, in which he states that if the interests of the government demand it he will use whatever powers onferred upon him by Congress in preference to selling gold or bonds in order to meet the demands upon the department. Wall street construed the ashington despatch to mean a reissue of forty-four millions of greenbacks, and those short both of governments and railway shares became wild in their rush to buy in their stocks. That the monstrous proposition to indate the greenback currency to the extent of forty-four millions, any extent at all, will not be carried into effect, is certain; but meanwhile it has served its bulling the market, and the Treasury ring have doubtless made money by the operation nat Mr. McCulloch should have gone back upon all his former professions to serve a party of stock-lobbers is a source of amazement, and will give him reputation for inconsistency which he has not hitherto had. That the proposed action of the department in any case is a measure of expediency not stifled by sound policy cannot be disputed, and there is no probability whatever that a dollar of currency will be reissued, the act of Congress suspending conraction having also forbidden inflation.

Government securities and railway and miscella cous shares were excited and buoyant during the day, mainly under purchases to cover "shorts," and now that the "short" interest is closed up to a great extent the market will lose the support which tt previously afforded and prices will relapse as quickly as they have advanced. The inflation of speculative stocks here and the hoarding of breadstuffs in the West have en the chief causes of the present stringency; and for the Secretary of the Treasury to come to the relief of a few speculators in these commodities ald be a stretch of official authority never anticipated by Congress. The money market was easier than at any time during the week, and loans were nade at seven per cent in gold, and afterwards, in some instances, at the same rate in cur-reacy, a small commission being added where amount was small or the borrowers or collaterals not first class; but this is no indication of sterial change in the condition of the money market, the banks having begun to remit largely to the South and Southwest. The bank statement for the week shows a decrease of $4,423,741 in legal tenders, $3,301,829 in deposits, and $5,753,678 in logar, while in the specie there is an increase of $5,826,215 and in the circulation an increase of $100,427. These figures indicate a contraction of the resources of the banks, and are therefore calculated to afford but listle encouragement to those who are looking for an easy money market.

The gold market sympathized with the general reaction, and the fluctuations prior to the adjourn-ment of the board at three o'clock were from 133% to 134%, with the closing transactions at 134%. Fol-lowing this there was an advance to 135% a 135%, and the latest sales on the street were at 135%. There was considerable pressure to loan coin, and ans were made at rates varying from three to seven per cent per annum, and at 1-64, 1-16 and 5-64 per cent until Monday for carrying, and in a few instances "flat." This advance of two per cent in stockjobbing despatch referred to in disturbing values for the benefit of the Treasury ring.

At the ten o'clock open board the stock market was strong, and New York Central sold at 120% a 120%; Erie. 39% a 39%; Hudson River, 124; Reading, 25% a 95%; Michigan Southern, 82% a 92%; Cleve-land and Pittsburg, 83% a 84; Cleveland and Toledo, 98% a 98%; Rock Island, 103% a 103%; Northwestern, 20 % a 80%; do. preferred, 82 % a 84 %; Fort Wayne, preferred, 78 a 79; Onio and Mississippi, 29 a 29%; Pacific Mali, 117 a 117%; Mariposa preferred, 20 a 20%; Adams Express, 40%; Quicksilver, 21%; Tennessee sixes, new issue, 68%. At the first regular board prices continued to rise, and on the call New Ford prices continued to rise, and on the call New York Central closed 3 higher than at the same time yesterday, Erie 1½, Reading 3½, Michigan Southern 2½, Cleveland and Pittsburg 4½, Cleveland and To-ledo 2½, Rock Island 2½, Northwestern 8½, do. pre-ferred 5½, Fort Wayne 3½, Milwaukee preferred 2, Onio and Mississippi 34, Pacific Mail 334, Quicksilver 134, Western Union Telegraph 134, Tennessee sixes, new issue, 434, North Carolina sixes 434, new issue 4½, and Missouri sixes 5; while Milwaukee and St. Paul was 1 lower. Government securities were 1½ a 2½ per cent higher and greatly excited. At the open board at one o'clock, the market continued strong. New York Central old at 120% a 120%; Erie, 39% a 39%; Hudson River, 125; Reading, 94% a 95%; Michigan Southern, 82%; Pittsburg, 84 a 84%; Rock Island, 103% a 104%; Northwestern, 81% a 81%; do. preferred, 83% a 84%; Fort Wayne, 108%; Pacific Mail, 117%; Western Union, 35%; Ohio and Mississippi, 29% a 29%; Mariposa preferred, 21; Quicksliver. 21%; Wells-Fargo Express, 27% a 27%; Merchants' Union Express, 21. There was no later session of either the regular or the open board, but business was continued with onuch activity in the lower hall and afterwards on the street up to half-past five, when the following quotations were current, these in the meantime having further advanced in some instances, owing to a rush on the part of the bears to cover their contracts:-Pacific Mall, 118%; Western Union, 35% a 26: New York Central, 123 a 12314; Erie, 40 a 4014; Reading, 96%; Michigan Southern, 83 a,83%; Pitta-burg, 84%; Rock Island, 103% a 104; Northwestern, 83%; Northwestern preferred, 84%; Fort Wayne,

A commercial weekly thus refers to the dry goods trade of the city during the week:—

The dry goods market still presents the same list-less, inert appearance as reported for three weeks past, the transactions being limited to a few orders for the most pressing requirements. It was generally supposed that with the conclusion of the political contest we should witness a revival of activity, but under the present aspect of financial affairs it is feared that we are destined to disappointment. The extreme stringency of the money market has had as yet no very appreciable effect in the dry goods business, because it was supposed that the spasm would be but of temporary duration. Should, however, the present crisis continue and extend to the commercial community, the desire to make immediate collections and to restrict credits to the lowest point would have a prejudicial effect on trade, while at the same time the pressure to realize might induce holders to accept, for cash, still lower prices than those now ruling. The present extreme tightness of money, however, will probably last but a short time; and the dry goods business has been conducted on such a conservative basts that no scrious alarm is felt as to making collections.

 A Boston journal of yesterday thus refers to the condition of the local money market:condition of the local money market:—

Monetary affairs are in rather a critical condition. Money is daily becoming more inaccessible, the banks as a rule doing nothing in the way of discounting, and many of them being on the list of urgent borrowers, finding about as poor success in that character as individuals. Call loans now out at sever per cent are being notified, not for an increase of rates, but for payment, to enable the banks to meet their necessary requirements. In the meantime business men and borrowers generally are subjected to great inconvenience. Their applications for discounts are placed on file with the great accumulation of similar calls, and they have to wait for the more convenient season, tiding over present wants by renewals or temporary negotiations with outside parties.

THE PRESERVATION OF FOOD.

Recent Modes of Desicenting and Preparing Perishable Articles of Food.

[From the American Artisan, Nov. 4.]
The preservation of articles of food, whether to increase their nutritious properties, or their preservation when of a perishable nature, or their more convenient carriage and transportation, constitutes a subject of extended importance and one that at the present time is exciting considerable attention among practically scientific men. Most of the efforts made in this direction of late years have, however, been directed toward the discovery of some cheap and efficient means of preserving animal rather than vegetable substances, owing to the well-known cheapness of the former in many countries and the wealth and celebrity that would be almost certain to accrue to whoever could produce a means whereby they could be brought intact and at small cost to lands more densely populated and affording sure and steady markets. Some of these efforts, alsure and steady markets. Some of these efforts, a though founded on principles theoretically correct have achieved only a temporary notoriety in practic and then fallen out of recollection, while others have been successful in their immediate object but falled have achieved only a temporary notoriety in practice and then fallen out of recollection, while others have been successful in their immediate object but falled, either from being too costly or from some other reason quite apart from their intrinsic nature, to win complete confidence or come into extended commercial notice. Among the latter may be mentioned the meat-bisent, celebrated for many years past, and made by simply mixing strong beet-tea with fine flour and molding it into masses of proper size and shape, and which was so nutritive that four ounces per day was sufficient for a soldier on active duty. Some considerable attention has also been devoted to the preparation of vegetables by different experimenters, whose processes in most instances have been quite simple and frequently embraced but little novelty. These have, however, been often of decided interest as indicating means by which cheap and rapidly decaying materials may be converted into substantial articles of food not liable to decay. As indicating the direction in which improvements may tend to the development of methods capable of more extended utility, a brief mention of some of those hitherto suggested may be of interest.

The primitive method of desiccating vegetables, such as carrots, turnips and the like, to eiget their reservation was airculated.

spread them upon the floor of a kiln, and, after drying them theroughly, to pack them into casks; but this, saide from the liability of the dried places to again absorb moisture, and consequently to subsequently decompose, reduced their bulk only in a moderate degree. Another and later plan was to expel say seven or eight per cent of moisture from the vogetable by a moderately warm temperature, then press by a hydraulic press into dense blocks, which were wrapped in this foil to exclude the air; by this means it is said that as much as four thousand pounds can be brought within the space of a cubic yard, and samples of cabbages, plaintains and other vegetables of kindred character were kept in an edible condition for several years by this method. The cost was, however, upon the whole comparitively great, involving as it did the employment of expensive machinery, and the product was better adapted for army rations than for ordinary culinary purposes. A somewhat similar plan, also applied to effect the preservation of metal, is to first subject the substances cut in small pleces to steam at a high temperature, which effectually coagulates the albuminous matter therein, and then drying them by currents of hot dry air. This was in use in Paris many years ago, and was recommended in high terms by some eminent savans of the period.

Among the more recent suggestions in this line has been the desiccation of the sweet potato of the Southern States for shipment abroad, the dried and powdered tubers producing a nutricious substance at a very moderate cost; a bushel of the tubers when dried occupying only about a quarter of their former space, and being reduced in weight to twenty pounds. It is very likely that to carry this idea into actual practice would necessitate the invention of more efficient drying apparatus than is now available, and if, as has been sometimes proposed, a similar plan was sought to be developed with regard to the Irish or common potato, some cheap and casily employed means would have to be made kn

REMOVAL OF THE NATIONAL CAPITAL TO THE WEST.

A recent letter from St. Louis to a Washington paper has the following in regard to rather an im portant topic. If the national capital could be re-moved anywhere and leave all its corruptions where they now reek and rotten it would be a grand thing for the whole country:-

for the whole country:—
People out here have a settled conviction that the seat of government will be removed here or hereabouts within the next twenty years. They say that they will have it, not to give importance to any particular city or locality, but as an emblem that the seat of empire is in the Mississippi Valley. The capital, they hold, will come to them naturally and in evitably in the course of a few years. The East is not growing; the West is gaining power in Congress yearly, through the formation of new States and new Congressional districts. When all these vast prairies of the richest land are filled up with the population they are capable of supporting, the wealth and population will be so preponderant here that the seat of government will necessarily gravitate to the point where it will be in harmony with and an exponent of the national heart. This is the Western idea, and it is worth our while in Washington to prepare to meet it by making our city so cosey and agreeable as a place of residence and resort that members will be unwilling to leave it to seek quarters of doubtful healthfulness on the banks of the muddy Mississippi.

THE MURDER OF BRONSON AT WEST HAVEN.—Yesterday an important discovery was made in the barn at West Haven, where Mr. Bronson is supposed to have been killed by Abbott, who, our readers will recollect, had a preliminary hearing before Justice Clark, of Orange, a few davs ago. A gentleman who felt interested in the case made a thorough search for further evidence of the guilty deed, and on removing some boards of the floor he found underneath both boards and shavings saturated with blood. Boards with blood upon them were found under the bloody shavings, and over all were the boards which had been placed to hide the dreadful sight. Some boards were found some days before the Justice's examination which had the appearance of having been scraped, but yesterday others were taken from the barn which had clots of gore upon them.—New Haven Journal, Nov. 7.
